HAND THROWN BRICK SLIPS

Our bricks are produced using a highly skilled, hand moulding process which imparts distinctive folds, fingermarks, and other surface irregularities.

These processes produce a characterful rounded edge traditional brick slip used for facing internal and external feature walls, timber frame buildings, external wall insulation systems, firesurrounds and more.

LONG FORMAT THIN BRICK

Our long format thin bricks are thin sections of genuine bricks. This provides the same look as conventional brick work, and is perfect in replicating the appearance of a conventional brick wall in both internal and external applications. They offer a flexible way to get the style you want and can be fitted to a range of surfaces as a quick, easy and cost-effective way to create an authentic brick finish that offers low maintenance and long term durability.

The performance benefits of brick slips are similar to those of brick: a breathable, non-combustible, durable, recyclable and energy-efficient material. No other cladding solution offers this combination of beauty and practicality.
